

Heritage

Melbourne Airport acknowledges the Wurundjeri Woi-wurrung as the traditional custodians of the land that the airport operates on. First Nations cultural heritage recorded within the Melbourne Estate include stone artefact scatters, scarred trees, stone quarries and earth features that form an intricate cultural landscape.

As current custodians of the land on which the airport operates, Melbourne Airport realises that our actions can have a material impact on these cultural heritage assets (positive or negative), and we are committed to protecting and managing these assets in partnership with the Wurundjeri Woi-wurrung.

Early European heritage at the airport is related to land originally acquired by a small number of mostly Scottish settlers in the late 1840s and early 1850s and then modified for pastoralism and local industry.

Our heritage assets

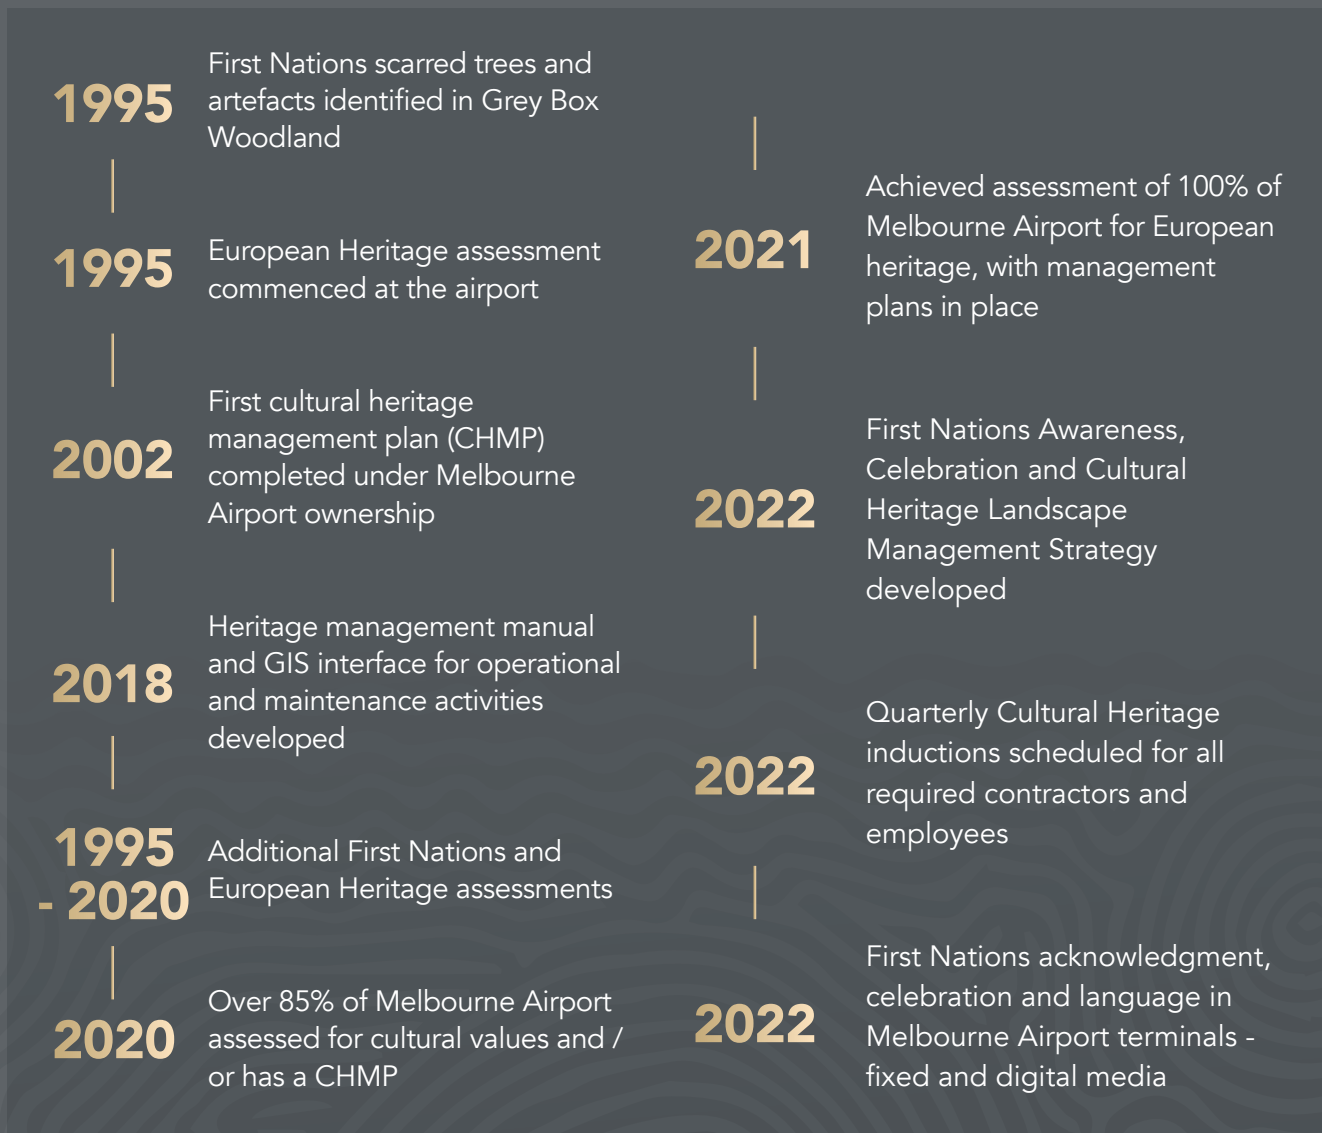

First Nations artefacts, scarred trees, places, stone quarries and songlines

European heritage of early Scottish pastoralism in the Tullamarine area including homesteads, boiling down works, farmsteads and culverts

Our Journey timeline

Our targets

100% of Melbourne Airport assessed for cultural values and / or has an approved Cultural Heritage Management Plan by end FY25

First Nations and European Heritage stories incorporated into Melbourne Airport Terminals by end of June 2023

To view more about Melbourne Airport's sustainable and environmentally responsible approach go to:

melbourneairport.com.au